Caliber Collision Centers Enters North Carolina Market With Haddock Collision Centers Acquisition

Caliber Collision's First Acquisition in Eastern U.S.

LEWISVILLE, TX – June 3, 2014 – Caliber Collision Centers, the largest collision repair company in the U.S., announced that it has acquired Haddock Collision Centers in North Carolina today.

Haddock Collision has been an industry leader for over forty years in North Carolina and has five locations in and around the Raleigh, North Carolina market.

Steve Grimshaw, Caliber Collision Chief Executive Officer announced, “Our acquisition of Haddock Collision Centers in North Carolina represents our first of many acquisitions to come in the eastern U.S. I am very excited to have Todd McGowan and the entire Haddock Collision organization join forces with Caliber.”

“The Haddock Collision facilities and management team are perfectly aligned with our purpose, vision and mission by consistently delivering unparalleled customer satisfaction and industry-leading operational consistency in the Raleigh, North Carolina area for over 40 years,” added Grimshaw.

News Release

“We created a place where people really do want to work and are pleased that Caliber Collision will offer our employees a bright future, while serving the community in the fashion they have come to expect” stated Todd McGowan, Owner of Haddock Collision.

“Our acquisition of Haddock Collision increases Caliber’s total number of locations to 177 as we continue to grow into the collision repair provider of choice across the U.S. as we restore each and every customer to the rhythm of their lives,” said Mark Sanders, Caliber Collision Centers’ President and Chief Operating Officer.
